The RECORD for 1952

Hello . . . .

We are the people who have brought to you this yearbook. We have worked hard and we hope that we will be paid for our efforts through your appreciation and acceptance of this yearbook.

Though all of the staff have contributed to the work of the "Record," there are a few who deserve special recognition. The clever drawings found throughout the book are a display of Denny Cole's and Ray Lemieux's artistic talents.

Our editor, Sally Fadden, has led the way in making what we think is a successful yearbook. She has had in her hands the responsibility of gathering written material, correcting it, and assembling the pages in their final form.

Ruth Dexter, business manager, has handled the financial problems of the yearbook. She has had charge of the advertising and the sale of group pictures.

Assistant editor, Nancy St. Lawrence, has helped Sally in the organizing of the "Record" and has had charge of the sale of subscriptions.

Although all of these people have had a big share in producing the yearbook, we must, however, remember that it took, not five people, but the whole staff — the writers, typists, ad solicitors, and our faculty advisor, Mr. Wiskup, who put a great deal of time and effort in making this book a treasure for the Seniors.

We have all worked hard and hope that we have succeeded in producing an outstanding yearbook.

. . . and Welcome!

This is in the manner of being both a foreword and an editorial, killing two birds with one stone, so to speak.

First a hearty welcome to the pages of our yearbook. Pages full of memories, pictures of happy hours. Young lives pulsate between lines and the heartbeat of youth shines through every page. This truly is a record of days of toil and gaiety, a record of probably the most carefree and wonderful days of any man or woman.

We, this year, are carrying on many of the policies and techniques inaugurated last year by Nathalie Kelley and her staff. We are continuing the hard cover and single issue yearbook. We are attempting to enlarge upon last year's "Record" by enlarging the printed size of the page, adding more pictures and more line cuts. So again we have striven to make your yearbook a memory book to treasure in years to come.

Janus, pictured below, probably best illustrates what I am going to say next. Janus was a Roman God, the porter at the door of Heaven. He is the guardian of the gates, and is therefore pictured with two faces representing doorways looking two ways. He opens the year and it is from Janus that the first month of our year, January is named.

We as Seniors about to graduate also stand in a great gateway, about to step into a new year — a new era, indeed — of our lives. And it seems to me, that as we stand on this portal, most of us with eyes uplifted toward the great promise that the future holds, it is fitting that we should pause briefly and cast a glance backward at the past, not only our own past but also that of our school.

Twenty-five years ago we were endowed with a new brick building. A new and progressive step was taken by our town to help us in our education to make better citizens of us. A new and modern building replaced the old wooden structure which for so long stood as a loved symbol to many, many people. The first class to receive high school diplomas in Littleton was that of 1877, which comprised eight students. Could those eight students have seen ahead to the forty-four pupils graduating seventy-five years in the future, would they have been a little in awe of us? I'm sure they would see many things to envy, and many things which might not be so appealing. They would envy our improved educational matter and our fine teaching staff. They would envy longingly our vast opportunities, but they would be very happy too for they would see how very, very far their school had progressed, perhaps the buildings had changed but still underneath would be the pride of belonging to Littleton High School.

So we the seventy-fifth Littleton High School graduating class graciously pay tribute to the class of 1877 and to the class of 1927 — the first graduating class from our present building. And we should tip our hats too to all the many other classes which have in each of their individual ways added that little bit to our tradition, that little lilt to our steps as we thank each day the many, many young people who shared our books, our seats and the honor of belonging to L.H.S.

Up until now there has been no active Alumni organization. Previous classes have, to be sure, elected alumni officers, but after graduation organized activities as classes have ended. There has long been a need at Littleton High School for such an organization, for banquets, dances and reunions where old friends once again get together and share their happinesses and successes with each other, where good fellowship and brotherhood radiate warmly and like a golden glow captivate every soul, where once again memories are aroused and old classmates bask in the sunshine of youthful gaiety. Why such an organization was not started long ago we can only guess. Wars have taken people's minds away from happier days. People have moved from Littleton, others have stayed; but no matter where they are they will never forget Littleton High School, so why let her forget us? Let us have a truly organized alumni, to help our school, and to help us remember happier days.

We of the class of 1952 hope we have done our bit in fostering such an organization and that the coming classes will pick up where we leave off. For a strong Alumni association is a bulwark to any school.

I have discussed the face of Janus which looks into the past. What about the face into the future? Who knows?

The future stretches ahead like a long silver ribbon, like a highway onto which we are about to step. We, the class of nineteen-hundred and fifty-two, will step into fast moving traffic,—into an election year, into a threatening war, but most of all alone with ourselves. There will be no guiding parents or teachers, but we shall be alone with our own destinies. We will have begun a new era and ahead of us is a mysterious shroud which covers the future. There will be no going back but in our minds. We shall always and forever cherish those four golden years, and never shall we forget our high school.

And so to the class of nineteen-hundred and fifty-two this yearbook will surely be something to cherish forever, something to look at in years to come, a book of values, book of love and happiness.

And now in closing may I wish you Good Health, Good Luck and Happiness and please never forget Littleton High.

Sally Fadden

Good Luck always Ed
George W. Pasichuke

To Mr. George Pasichuke

. . . . . because he has always shown only his most wholehearted interest in us.

. . . . . because of his untiring patience.

. . . . . because of his understanding and kindnesses.

. . . . . because he has taught us more than that which is in books.

. . . . . because his sincerity toward us has always been felt in the classroom and on the ball field.

. . . . . because he helped us and guided us in our problems.

. . . . . because he has stood as a bulwark to our school.

. . . . . because he is a teacher whom we shall always remember and be proud of.

We, therefore, the class of nineteen hundred and fifty-two, dedicate this our Senior Yearbook to George W. Pasichuke.

Class Ode

by

Doria Bilodeau and Dorothy Wheatley

We are leaving Littleton High School
All our hearts are sad and blue,
All fond memories remaining
Of our years with you.
May the classes coming forward,
Always be so true to you,
And all our friends and teachers
Never fade in hope that's true.
May we remain forever
In the hearts left here at school,
True friends to all who know us
We bid adieu.

(To the tune of "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You.")

Looking Backward . . .

Long, Long Ago

IT SURE WAS . . . Four long years ago, in September, 1948, school opened just as it always has. Up the winding path scuffed many youths with mixed emotions. Some were simply bursting with good cheer and merriment (the Seniors); the usual rebellion had cropped up in others (the Sophs and the Juniors); and the sixty who made up the remaining faction were frightened nearly to death (the Frosh).

Some weeks passed. The Frosh, after attending their own Weinie Roast and babbling about it for a short spell after, suddenly awoke to the realization that their time was almost up and the Seniors were beginning to get nasty.

With grim forebodings the Day of Reckoning drew nearer. The Frosh were politely informed by their betters that they were to be formally welcomed into high school on October Eighth. However, the Day dawned brightly in spite of all the attempts of the Frosh to delay it. Everywhere the Untouchables duck - walked, there looming up in front of them were the Wearers of the Little Red Ribbon, awaiting the kiss which was to be dropped ardently upon their robes.

As eventide drew nigh, what were the terrifying thoughts which raced madly through the tiny brains of the Frosh? Happily, like everything fine and good, the Day finally came to a close with only a few victims of Garlic-mouth and Eggshampooitis registering complaints.

Presently, the Four Wheels were fastened onto the Mighty Machine. John H. Leader III entered the Presidential Office; Mary-Lou Colby was elected to the Vice-Presidency; Joyce Adele Cady took possession of the Secretaryship; and Donald Stewart Sargent became Collector of Revenue and Keeper of the Treasury. Upon the exit of Miss Colby, shortly thereafter Doria Alberta Bilodeau became Vice President.

The first dance of the Frosh was advertised far and near as the Shmoo Dance and featured the orchestra of one Weston S. Root who played "the sweetest music this side of Art's Ark."

Several other mediocre activities were sponsored by the Frosh, which didn't exactly swell the treasury, but at least shifted the dust on it.

Age of Innocence

AS ONE YEAR HERETOFORE, the Mighty Machine emerged from the mothballs and made tracks for the open arms of the Halls of Learning. Little time was lightly tossed around before four brand-new wheels were fastened onto the old buggy. Robert John Ross commenced to serve the first term of his many future years of successful governing as president. Ingrid Tamm fitted very nicely into the Vice President's chair and Raymond Lemieux proceeded to take notes at class meetings as every dutiful secretary should. J. Dennison Cole had a rather trying year shooing the moths off the money. Even Mr. Stoddard's Math Class of the preceding year didn't seem to have done him any good. Miss Tamm remained in office for a short spell, then removed elsewhere whereby Doria Alberta Bilodeau caught up with Ross at last and became Vice President in the stead of Miss Tamm.

Plans buzzed shortly thereafter like flies on a molasses cake in connection with several marvelous feats which were to be held hence. One was the Weinie Roast which took place on September the 28th at the Sandpit Public Picnic Grounds, chaperoned by Mr. GWP and Miss Janet Tinker, and sad to relate, was the last one which the Mighty Machine had for itself.

Skipping triumphantly along right behind the Weinie Roast was the Sadie Hawkins Dance, a happy thing which featured one Wes Root and his Moondusters who furnished delightful music throughout the eventide.

As this was to be the last year of Mr. Stoddard (bless his soul), the Wise Fools all agreed amongst themselves that it would be a year Mister Stoddard would never forget, try as he might. To the Little Ones, Mr. Stoddard was amusing, but he was also an object of admiration and wonder. His audacious wit and vitality will never cease to be marvelled at by whomever he may teach in school — or out.

The Golden Era

ON A FROSTY SEPTEMBER MORN in the year of Our Lord 1950, a brand-new Junior Class leading the pack by three lengths this time, marched with pride up the mount to the little red schoolhouse, entered and held a quiet discussion concerning the Rulers of the Rest. Robert John Ross was once again presented with the Presidency for his second term with Miss Bilodeau as his secretary. The Right Honorable James H. Budd III, Esq., entered into the Vice Presidency with a whoop, and since nobody else wanted the job, Den Cole was elected Collector of Taxes and Keeper of the Treasury. Mr. Leon Wiskup also entered office.

After commencing to roll once again, the Four Wheels made it quite clear to the voters that there was but one course to follow — that which was paved with the most money. Immediately thereafter, the Barnyard Ball was thrown with a tolerable amount of success and gaiety.

Spring arrived with muddy feet and right along behind her came plans and preparations for the Junior Promenade at last. After sweating it out for several weeks about things in general, mostly money, this glorious event was peacefully held at the Littleton Opera House on the 25th of May and a truly lovely queen was chosen to reign over the ball. The patrons danced to the music of those old faithfuls, the Ambassadors. Thus on June 16th, the most memorable year of the Penny-Pinchers came to a close.

The Last Mile

FOUR LONG YEARS AGO on a sunny morn in September a middle-sized array of youthful citizens could be observed making their way slowly, but in a sense, faithfully, up the steep hill or the crooked little path, both of which halt at the green grass of the Halls of Ivy. Some of these individuals were in the best of spirits. It was evident, however, from the pale countenances of those remaining that they were given no opportunity to express their feelings.

Four years later, these last mentioned were to be once again observed trudging up the mount, this time with cheery countenances. Three guesses as to their identity. Once again Elections were held — Ross became President; Jackalyn Mae House accepted the Secretaryship; Lemieux was hoisted into the Vice Presidency, and Dot Wheatley started collecting revenue.

The first event of the year was the Seniors' Get - Acquainted - With - the - Younger Classes Dance. Check. Preparations were then commenced for the Freshman Hop, a riotous affair which afforded considerable entertainment for all — even those who were looking on, sometimes. The thing was a little mite mixed-up, but there was a lot of feeling behind all the bowing and scraping and dishing out of assignments.

Around the latter portion of the year, the Machine wisely voted to extend part of its savings toward the upkeep of a European child, rather than go on a class trip. The remaining portion would go to miscellaneous expenses.

To pay tribute to the many teachers and friends who have accompanied the Penny-pinchers of '52 throughout their happiest of ventures, would be quite impossible in this small space. Looking back over the twelve years one may quite truthfully describe them with many words of complimentary and grateful meaning.

. . . Gazing into the Future

"June thirteen, nineteen sixty-two," I thought to myself as I switched on the dial of my television set and settled back comfortably for a pleasant night of listening. The supper dishes were done, the children were all in bed, sound asleep, I hoped. Ernie had gone out with the boys at the office to see the new three-dimensional movies. I had already seen the picture, "Love's Heavenly Song," starring Margaret O'Brien as a gangster's gun moll — so I was alone in the living room.

"June thirteen, nineteen sixty-two," I repeated to myself. "My, how the years do fly. It's been exactly ten years since my class was graduated from Littleton High School. I wonder where they all are? I wonder if everyone got his wish? We were all so ambitious — so hopeful. I wonder —"

As I got up to focus the picture appearing on the television screen, the electronic chime of the photo-electric eye outside the door told me that someone was calling on me.

I was surprised, when I opened the front door, to find my old classmate, Ruth Dexter, standing there.

"Why, Ruth," I exclaimed, "what a pleasant surprise! Come in, please. I was just thinking of the class and wondering what everyone was doing. Say, what are you doing down this way? I thought you were teaching school in Alaska."

"I'm home on vacation for a month," Ruth replied, "and I thought I'd look up some of my old classmates, but most of them seem to be away. Someone told me that you were married and living in Lisbon, so I thought I'd call on you."

"Come in the living room," I said, "and we can talk over old times while we watch television."

As we sat, drinking our coffee, there appeared upon the television screen an announcer introducing Admiral Ross, the naval hero, and his beautiful wife. We recognized them as none other than our old friends, Bob Ross and Doria Bilodeau. Admiral Ross was being presented with many awards for bravery beyond the call of duty.

Also within range of the camera stood two nuns, one of whom we recognized instantly as Virginia Bixby.

Next on the agenda was the prominent presidential candidate, James H. Budd, III, with his campaign manager, Denny Cole. James Budd was sure to win the election because no one was running against him. Next to James stood a beautiful woman in a white ermine wrap, whom we recognized as Muriel Lewis, the night-club singer at the White Swan, formerly Art's Ark, now owned by Pauline Harvey, Dorothy Lucas, and Ellen Richardson.

The next program was the most popular homemaking show in America, two sisters-in-law, giving recipes and household hints. Who would ever have guessed that Dora Colbeth and Marion Wright would have their own television program?

Suddenly, we were transferred to a commercial, advertising Pyrofax Gas, sold at all Cole Hardware Stores across the nation. The owner of this large chain was none other than Boyd Cole, now the nation's leading millionaire.

We were returned from our commercial to a space ship plant where we saw three of the world's leading scientists, Richard Enderson, Joseph Cullen, and Elsworth Goodsell, getting ready to make their fifth spectacular flight to the moon. To think that we laughed when they told us they would do this someday.

Just then, my favorite program, "Home Sweet Home Across the Nation," came on. First, they took us to Waterbury, Vermont, and introduced us to Mr. and Mrs. Robert West. The former Jackie House said that she didn't mind being a working wife, as long as she could be at Bob's side. Next, we were taken to New York City, N. Y., to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reichers. Mrs. Reichers proved to be none other than Sally Fadden. We wondered how Don liked being married to the editor of the "New York Times." The next home was 'way over in Wyoming in a little Quonset hut. This was where Allan and Betty McPherson lived. This was the same Betty Hatley who would never tell us where all those letters were going. The last home we were taken to was that of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Godbout. His wife was, of course, the former Ruth Lewis.

The following program introduced two prominent rival poultry raisers; one from Dalton, named Shirley Golden, and the other from Gilman, named Leo Laitres. We also saw Elizabeth Towle who, by this time, had become an important figure in the 4-H. On that same program were the President and Vice President of the National PTA, June Hall and Mary Jenkins, who were still trying to get a solid session established in Littleton High School.

Flicking the ashes from my cigarette, I switched the dial to another channel, only to find that the "Telephone Hour" was now nearing an end. Several chief operators were discussing a system of coast-to-coast dialing. We recognized two of the operators from our home town, who had finally become chief operators. They were Doris LaMere, now of Brooklyn, New York, and June Leighton, now of Northfield, Vermont. Somehow we knew that June would end up in a town where there were plenty of men.

We were then taken to a dietitian's lab where an instructor was explaining modern methods to a group of restaurant owners and their wives. It seemed so strange to see Judy Marquis as a dietitian instructor, lecturing to Ray Lemieux, owner of the famous Lemieux restaurant chain, with his wife, the former Joyce Cady.

The S and M Follies, owned by Don Sargent and Oscar Malenfant, was the subject of the next program. Three new dancing acts were shown; the first by Jean Primmer Kenison, the second by Joyce Herron, and the third by Joanne Thomas MacIver, three young dancing stars.

I turned the dial to the channel where the Carnegie Hall concert was to appear within five minutes. The announcer was interviewing two famous cheerleaders and a national football hero. The two cheerleaders were recognized as Dot Wheatley and Barbara Woodbury. The football hero proved to be Charles Spencer, that rugged young man who had fought his way to the top.

It was now 11:30, at which time the concert at Carnegie Hall started to be broadcast. The star of this show was America's favorite baritone, Arthur Maynes, and accompanying him at the piano was Doris Weldon.

At 12:00, the concert was ended and the announcer came back to wish us goodnight and to ask us to tune in again tomorrow night. We had thought that there was something familiar about the announcer, and now we realized that he was Harry Welch, of our Freshman Hop fame. We always knew he would end up in some entertainment medium.

Suddenly, Ruth leaped to her feet.

"I didn't realize how late it was!" she exclaimed, picking up her coat and hat. "I've had a marvelous time," she added. "I'll try to see you again before I head back to Alaska."

"Please do," I replied. "I'm sorry that Ernie didn't get home, because I would have liked to have him meet you."

"Maybe the next time he'll be here so that I'll have a chance to meet him," Ruth said as she opened the door and started toward her car which would take her back home.

LHS — present building completed in 1927.

Cast and Stage Crew of "Strictly Formal" enjoying informal laugh.

Our Senior Play

From the moment the audience stepped into the school building on the evenings of the fifteenth and sixteenth of November, they realized that they were in for a night that was — as the title of the Senior Play proclaimed — "strictly formal." At the door they were met by one of three tuxedo-clad ticket-takers, Bob Ross, Arthur Maynes, or Charles Spencer. They were presented programs in the style of formal invitations and led to their seats by usherettes — Ruth Dexter, Doris LaMere, Velma Cassidy, Elizabeth Towle, and Virginia Bixby — all of whom were dressed in colorful formal evening gowns.

And from the moment the curtain went up, the audience acknowledged that they were being treated to an evening that was strictly hilarious as well.

The three-act play, Strictly Formal, concerns the adventures and misadventures of two teenage girls, Jane Cutler and her friend Sally, played respectively — and professionally — by Jean Primmer and Doria Bilodeau. The two girls are striving desperately to obtain dates for the graduation dance. The appearance of Doria's vampish cousin, in the personage of Doris Weldon, makes things worse, but all is finally straightened out by Jean's cousin, Cindy (Sally Fadden).

Dorothy Wheatley, as Agnes the maid, proved to be quite the comedienne. Her warning to Elroy (Harry Welch) that the Cutler home was, for him, "one big booby-trap," nearly brought down the house.

James Budd, as Andrew Cutler, Jane's father, was very realistic as he stormed around, raving about his prize peonies.

The shot-putting scene, with Harry Welch as Elroy and Sally Fadden as Cindy, was a high spot in the play. Cindy was trying to show Elroy the best way to put the shot. The way she told him off, all in one breath, was enough to leave even the audience panting.

Doris Weldon did an excellent job as Marcia, the vamp from New York. Anyone who saw the play will remember the way she beguiled Donald Sargent and Denny Cole, and her failure to enchant Harry Welch.

Others in the cast, all of whom played their parts with a poise and realism that gave the play its professional polish, were: Janet Hemenway as Nettie Cutler, Jane's mother—"Andrew, what in the world is the matter?"—; Raymond Lemieux as Mr. Aherne, the Cutlers' peony-growing neighbor — "This way, I don't have to pay for my gas!"—; Barbara Woodbury as Rose Tilton who has the mumps — "I'm crushed. I mean I really am" —; Muriel Lewis as Josie Tilton, Rose's lollipop-licking kid sister — "See you in the pig pen, but keep your hat on" —; Judy Marquis as Josie's mother — "And you'll hear from the F.B.I.!"—; Joyce Cady as Marilyn, who is after Elroy — "Has anyone seen Elroy?" —; and Oscar Malenfant as the dashing Capt. Bob Cunningham — "Ah'd like sauerkraut pie, if you baked it."

Everyone in the cast seemed to be just made for the part he played, thanks to Mr. Wiskup's careful casting and directing.

Special credit should go to the two prompters, Joyce Herron and June Leighton, whose task is seldom appreciated but whose presence and careful attention inspired confidence in the cast.

Early in September we held our first class meeting in order to elect our class officers. The satisfactory results were the election of Arthur Rioux for president; Jerry Marquis, vice president; secretary, Nancy St. Lawrence; treasurer, Nancy Ross.

We decided on a hayride for the Tuesday of September 11. It turned out to be quite a success and netted a small profit for our treasury.

The next event was a "Record Dance" which took place on September 14. Since all the refreshments were donated and a large and merry crowd was present, the dance was a financial as well as a social success.

After our Christmas vacation, we started our new year out right by holding a class meeting to get the plans for the biggest event of the year, the Junior Prom, underway. At this meeting we also elected Barbara Richardson as our representative in the carnival queen contest. At a later meeting Nadine Blandin and Caroline Lefebvre were chosen to be ribbon-bearers for the carnival queen.

The big dance of the year was May 9, the annual Junior Prom. The decorations were very lovely portraying a flowery summer evening. The whole class participated in the decorations and helped to turn the Littleton High gym into a lovely dream comparable to any dancer's paradise. Ray Ledoux's orchestra from Laconia provided the soft and beautiful music to complete the setting. A large crowd attended and the gala affair was a huge success.

So final exams have brought to a close another perfect year at L.H.S. and with eager hearts we look forward to our final year of high school, winding up the most wonderful days of our lives.

The Class of 1954

On September 5, 1951, we gathered in Room Six and elected our officers for the year. By secret ballot the leaders were chosen as follows: President, Vernon Woods; Vice President, Griffin Harris; Secretary, Stephanie Eaton; and Treasurer, Eddie Bagley.

On October third, with Mr. Renney and Mr. Stopyra, we had our class party, with music by records. Cakes were donated to everyone by Mr. Ellingwood. The party was enjoyed by all Sophomores attending and a few Freshmen.

The annual Sadie Hawkins dance was a big success. Through the committee chairman, Larry Presby, and assistant chairman, Alvin Leonard, the hall was decorated as a harvest scene, and music was furnished by Lane's orchestra. Cider and doughnuts were served.

At 7:30 on October 10 we held a "Victory Dance" in memory of the last football game. We are proud to say that Alfred Lane and Skip Woods played in all games, and Dave Colby, Ronald Baker, and Griffin Harris saw action.

Irene Finn was chosen to be a contestant in the Carnival Queen contest, but was ruled out because she was not sixteen years old, but she and Stephanie Eaton were two of the eight to be queen attendants.

The boys of our class who were members of school athletic teams were: Alvin Leonard, Larry Presby, Earl Ellingwood, Ronald Baker, (members of the basketball J.V.'s); "Al" Lane (ski team member); Dave Colby, "Skip" Woods, Griffin Harris (Varsity basketball members) and Dave Lewis.

Class cheerleaders were "Pat" Clarke, Irene Finn, "Bobbie" Ryan, Roberta Corey and Jean Ricard. Sandra Paquette (who was a member of the girls' basketball squad) was manager.

Class pins were bought by several members of the class.

Class meetings were called to discuss food sales and a number of dances were enjoyed.

Two of our classmates were chosen for the cheerleading squad, Janet Hooper and Sandra Eastman.

On September 19, we held our class party in the gym. Mr. Bennett helped us learn new square dances. The party was enjoyed by all.

Richard Corey, Bob Fitchett, and Yvonne Pinard represented us in Student Council. Yvonne was chosen secretary of the Council.

The boys who played football were: Richard Corey, Glenn Stiles, Raymond Allard, Ambrose McLaughlin, Donald Sawyer, Donald Gadbois, Richard Millen and Nolan Santy. Managers were Trevor Champagne, and Marshall Knapp.

Freshmen Hop was held on September 26. We all dreaded its coming, but I know we will all admit it was lots of fun.

Two boys in our class played on the JV basketball team. They were Ambrose McLaughlin and Richard Millen. The only girl who made the girls' basketball team was Sally Lehan.

Bob Fitchett and Sandra Eastman were on the ski team. Sandra brought honor to our class by winning a gold cannon.

There were ten boys on our class basketball team for the intramurals this year. They were: George Stevens, Roger Taupier, Richard Corey, Bill Ellingwood, Richard Millen, Ambrose McLaughlin, Trevor Champagne, Donald Sawyer, and Donald Gadbois.

On the track team, were Bob Fitchett, Thomas Bugely, Richard Corey, and Trevor Champagne.

The Junior High School

The total enrollment in the Junior High school this year is eighty-four pupils. Of this number forty-eight are in the Seventh grade and thirty-six in the Eighth grade. The grades have been divided into two sections each, making four divisions this year, as a result of the opening of the new elementary school and transferring of the Apthorp Seventh and Eighth grades to the high school building.

Student Council representatives for the Junior High school are Marlene Reynolds for grade eight and Gordon Eaton representing grade seven.

A mimeographed newspaper issued quarterly under the faculty supervision of Mr. MacPherson has been a junior high project this year. Sally Bogle and Bartlett Rhoades, editors, have headed a staff of fourteen.

The Junior high has been well represented in sports activities. Billy Clark and Karl Kelley were members of the 1951-1952 junior varsity basketball team. In the Junior High School Basketball Tournament held at Lancaster in March, Littleton was represented by a Junior High team which was eliminated in the semi-finals.

In the field of winter sports Judith Lane was a member of the Littleton Girls' Ski Team, and Peter Cole, Gordon Eaton, David Harris, and Gary Whitcomb were on the Littleton Junior Ski Team.

Mr. Big meets Mr. Little.

Under the direction of Coach Weston Root, and Assistant Coach, Sheldon Varney, the Crusaders looked forward to a successful season, which began on Saturday, September 23.

Newport, Vermont 0 — Littleton 0

An eager Crusader team ventured to Newport, Vermont, for its first game of the season. The Crusaders dominated the first half, but the Newport Hawks came back to control the second half. Good defensive play by both teams proved to be the major factor of the scoreless tie.

Brewster Academy 27 — Littleton 0

The Crusaders played their second game of the season at Wolfeboro, against a strong Brewster Academy eleven. The new opponents outplayed Littleton throughout the whole game. The Academy scored once in each quarter to beat the Crusaders by a score of twenty-seven to zero.

Kennett 7 — Littleton 7

The Littleton High Crusaders played their third game of the season at Conway against an aggressive Kennett eleven. The two teams battled back and forth until the game ended a seven-seven tie.

St. Johnsbury Academy J.V.'s 6 — Littleton 6

The Crusaders played their first home game against St. Johnsbury Academy J.V.'s. In the third period the Academy, recovering a Crusader fumble, pushed on to score. The Academy failed to add the extra point. With seconds to go, Ray Lemieux plunged across for six points. The Crusaders failed to add the extra point and Littleton tied their third game of the season.

St. Johnsbury Trade 12 — Littleton 12

In the second home game of the season the Crusaders battled to a thrilling twelve-to-twelve tie. Littleton scored first in the second period from the six with Charlie Spencer carrying. The try for the extra point failed. Littleton went off the field at the half with a six-to-nothing lead.

The Trade School reached paydirt midway through the third period, but also failed to add the extra point. The tie was broken when Bob Ross of Littleton scored from the four, but again the Crusaders failed to score the extra point. The Trade struck back in the fourth period and scored from the two, missing their extra point.

Berlin 32 — Littleton 0

The Littleton High Crusaders traveled to Berlin for their sixth game of the season. Berlin left the field at half time with a thirteen-to-nothing lead. In the last two periods Berlin showed their power by scoring three more touchdowns and Littleton lost their second game.

Plymouth 41 — Littleton 7

The Littleton High Crusaders closed their 1951 season at home by meeting Plymouth High School, the Class C winners. Plymouth scored first after the opening kickoff via a Cayes-to-Michaud pass for thirty-five yards and added the extra point by rushing. The Crusaders came right back to march sixty yards to score. Skippy Woods cracked through from the four. Skippy also added the extra point, tying the game at seven all.

From here on Plymouth began to show their class as they scored five more touchdowns and added four more extra points to hand Littleton a forty-one-to-seven loss.

The Crusaders' season included four ties and three losses. Boyd Cole and Bob Ross were elected co-captains for the 1951 football season.

The Littleton Crusaders' basketball team of 1951-52 faced a very rugged schedule in that they were to compete against six teams that had entered the Class B playoffs last year.

The Crusaders saw the return of lettermen Oscar Malenfant, Jim Southard, David Colby and Bob Ross with the addition of Arthur Maynes, Leo Laitres, Dick Champagne, Dick Drapeau, Paul Pilotte, Leon Foster, Griff Harris and Skip Woods. The managers for the year were Don Sargent and Elsworth Goodsell.

Coach Ted Stopyra, because of illness, was replaced by Mr. George Pasichuke. Coach Pasichuke soon had his team organized and the Crusaders were on their way.

The Pasichuke men found the way really rough. Over many bumps and in many ruts the Crusaders ended their season with a record of three wins and fifteen losses.

The Crusaders' best game was toward the end of the season when they battled the Woodsville Engineers at Woodsville. The Engineers were victorious, but this was a moral victory for the Crusaders, for they came within one point of knocking off the runner-up in the Class C tournament, who later defeated the Class C Champions. Leo Laitres, with 18 points, and David Colby, with 12 points, were the offensive stars for Littleton.

At the annual basketball banquet put on by the Littleton Lions Club the following awards were given: gold stars to co-captains Oscar Malenfant and Bob Ross; stars to Jim Southard and David Colby; letters to Leo Laitres, Arthur Maynes, Dick Champagne, Griff Harris, Skip Woods, and managers Don Sargent and Elsworth Goodsell.

Through graduation, the Crusaders will lose the following: Arthur Maynes, Leo Laitres, Oscar Malenfant and Bob Ross.

This year's team would like to thank Mr. Pasichuke for sticking with them and for always having that "We-can-beat-this-team" attitude.

With a nucleus of eight returning veterans, the squad began its initial practice in the latter part of November under the direction of Mr. MacPherson.

The opening game witnessed the season's highest offensive scoring power displayed by the aggregation with a total of 82 points being poured through the hoop by both clubs.

The following game on the schedule saw the Engineers from Woodsville roll with their five foot forward, Hubbard, leading their attack with 24 points.

A trip to Woodsville featured the game of the season for members of the squad. The Engineers had previously beaten Littleton by 25 points. Littleton lost three of its starters and at the end of the regulation game the score was all tied up. After a thrill-a-minute overtime fracas, the local quintet was on the short end of a 44 to 42 count.

The following night Littleton took on a strong Plymouth team. Going into the final period the local squad was 15 points down. Littleton outscored its opponents 17 to 3 in the final quarter, and the game ended in a heart-breaking loss — 41-40.

The season's record ended with five wins and seven losses, with Littleton scoring a total of 365 points to its opponents' 351 points.

At a special assembly of the Athletic Association certificates were awarded to the following members of the squad: Billy Clark, Karl Kelley, Richard Millen, Pat McLaughlin, Ronald Baker, Larry Presby, Earl Ellingwood (captain), Alvin Leonard and Leon Foster.

Girls' Basketball

The team started the season off with a bang in a tight game at Colebrook, Littleton coming out on top 35-32.

The second game was played at home with Gorham, the latter going home with a win acquired in the last minute of play.

From here on things were black, the bright spots being ties in three hard fought games with North Stratford, Colebrook, and Gorham. Then showing something of their original scrap and traditional rivalry Littleton beat Bethlehem 61-49 on the home court.

On February 7, Littleton wound up the season at Groveton, losing by eight points in an exciting game.

Joyce Cady and Janet Hemenway were chosen as co-captains to lead the girls through the 1951-52 season, a job which they proved well qualified to fill. They and the rest of the seniors will be sadly missed by next year's team, a team, that though short in experience should be long on determination and enthusiasm.

No team is complete without its managers. Although they had to take some kidding about forgotten items, we had three competent and helpful managers in Doria Bilodeau, senior; Nancy St. Lawrence, junior; and Dorothea Lewis, sophomore.

The girls' basketball team would like to express its appreciation to Coach Janet Tinker, whose unending effort led us through an exciting season.

The first meet of the year was at Berlin, sponsored by the Nansen Ski Club. We placed seventh, out of ten schools competing. The next meet was the Class A State Championship meet at Sunapee and Lebanon which was a two-day meet . . . our team placed seventh again which dropped us back into Class B competition. At the Littleton Carnival meet at Mt. Eustis, there were thirteen schools competing, Littleton taking second place. The next meet was at Ossipee in which we placed second.

The team gained ground in the Franconia meet at Cannon Mountain, winning third place as a Senior team.

The last accomplishment of the season was when the team members earned their silver cannons by racing down Cannon Mountain. Silver Cannons were awarded to: G. Lewis, J. Southard, A. Lane, S. Eastman, J. Lane, D. LaMere, P. Cole and G. Eaton.

Sandra Eastman won her gold cannon with a time of 2:33.4. She is the youngest and third woman ever to win a gold cannon. Paula Kahn

At the time of this writing the Littleton High Crusaders are ready for a good, hard and fast baseball season. The Crusaders last year were rather green and with little experience played the best ball that they could put forth. This year the big Littleton nine is all set for action, and there are quite a few men from last year to go through the year to make the Crusaders a good ball club.

The Crusaders this year are up against some strong teams but with the coaching of Mr. Root the boys should play good ball.

The Crusaders have four seniors and they are going to play good ball for their team this year. The players are Bob Ross, Don Sargent, Dick Enderson and Leo Laitres. These boys have had a few years of playing topnotch baseball behind them. The other boys of the high school team that are going to do a good job are: Leon Foster, Skip Woods, Paul Pilotte and Griff Harris. These boys for the Crusaders are experienced ball players. This year the Crusaders should furnish excellent competition and will give their opponents some good games.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleading squad, consisting of nine girls — Captain Barbara Woodbury, '52; Jean Primmer, '52; Doris Weldon, '52; Dorothy Wheatley, '52; Barbara Richardson, '53; Gertrude Burgess, '53; Roberta Corey, '54; Janet Hooper,'55; and Sandra Eastman, '55 — started the season with many new and old cheers. They followed the football players to all their games, cheering them on — win or lose.

At the end of the football season Dot Wheatley, Doris Weldon, Gertrude Burgess, and Roberta Corey were lost to the squad. The remaining five made new skirts and bought blouses, thus having new uniforms for the start of the basketball season. They led cheers at all of the games for both boys and girls except for two which they couldn't attend. As two of the girls played on the girls' basketball team Janet Hooper, Sandra Eastman, and Jean Primmer were left to cheer the girls on.

They attended the cheerleading contest in Woodsville and although they didn't place they have some new ideas to improve next year's squad.

Let's all give one great big cheer to the girls who did a splendid job in keeping the school spirit at a high level.

Nice going, girls!!

On the first of October about sixty ambitious students turned out for our first earnest attempt to organize a school band, under the efficient direction of Mr. McLure who has had a great deal of experience in directing and organizing bands.

After having two or three lessons many of the students decided that they were not interested or that their studies took up much of their time and so the band starting out with about sixty students slowly dwindled down to about twenty-three and then about seven grammar school pupils came to join our progressing group.

Our first experience at playing for an audience was at a school Christmas assembly. Later we played at the Hospital Antics and also at the opening of the new grammar school.

The tenth of May, the band went to Burlington for the state festival which was a great experience for us.

The band meets every Thursday for individual instrument lessons and then at 2:00 for a band group. Practices have been started every Saturday morning at 9:00 where we practice marching formation.

Glee Club News

This year the girls and boys of L.H.S. turned out just as was predicted last year. Mrs. Deveda Cushing, the supervisor, divided the girls and boys into three groups, as there were so many — the special choir of thirty-five, a mixed glee club of thirty, and a choir of twenty-five freshman girls.

This was very gratifying to the school and the teachers as in previous years very few were interested. Thus this response was wonderful.

Boys who have never thought of singing or who thought they couldn't sing are doing a marvelous job.

Students who were unable to go out for sports in previous years have felt left out, but this year they are in the glee club, and feel as though they too are adding something to the school. Music in our school is becoming more and more important.

The glee clubs prepared a delightful Christmas program for the Colonial Club and the high school.

In April, eight were chosen to attend ALL STATE, held in Rochester, N. H., and were chaperoned by their supervisor, Mrs. Cushing.

In May, a concert was given by the High School Glee Club and the Junior High Glee Club. This concert was enjoyed by many and showed a great deal of work.

June came and the glee clubs added a glorious note to Baccalaureate Sunday, Class Night, and Graduation Night.

At this time the boys and girls of the glee clubs of L.H.S. wish to thank Mrs. Madelene Dexter, for devoting her time every Friday to play the piano for them. Mrs. Dexter's presence has made it possible for Mrs. Cushing to give more time to individual students.

The glee clubs have made much progress this past year and hope to continue doing so.

News and Views on Recreation

Each week in the Littleton Courier under the heading of "News and Views on Littleton Recreation," your recreational director, Albert R. Bennett, better known as "Al," has been keeping the people posted on recreational events.

On July 5, 1951, Remich Park opened its "gates" for recreational activities until September 1st. Mrs. Richard Ross assisted your director in carrying out various programs, but these programs could only be successful because of the many volunteer leaders. These leaders were classified as Coaches, Leaders, Assistant Leaders, and Junior Leaders. Some of these activities included: archery, table tennis (ping pong), horseshoes, volleyball, swimming, painting, newcomb, music, low organizational games, touch football, soccer, tetherball, softball, baseball, badminton, tennis, nature study (pigeon, hamster, and snakes), apparatus skill, sandbox play, pony rides, flag folding, square and folk dancing, backstop baseball, tumbling, croquet, chess, checkers, dominoes, carom, sidewalk tennis, hat-making, baton twirling, pick-up sticks, and capture the flag. The average attendance per day was 107 and over 500 different boys and girls participated in the summer program.

During the last week of July there was a daily average of 149 boys and girls enjoying the "Learn To Swim Week" at Patridge Lake sponsored by the local American Red Cross.

In the fall term each of the classes sponsored dances at the L.H.S. to raise money for their respective classes. The Junior class sponsored a successful hay ride with over forty boys and girls attending.

Every Saturday morning during the winter season, boys in the Seventh grade and above could play on one of the basketball teams that were formed. Varsity basketball players helped to referee and coach these teams.

Recreational games were introduced into the schedule of Kilburn and Apthorp Elementary Schools two afternoons a week. When the new consolidated elementary school opened this winter, the new gymnasium made it possible to teach square, folk, and social dances to the elementary school children of all grades. Two special evening parties were held at the new school for the fifth and sixth graders. These two successful dance parties were St. Valentine and St. Patrick Day parties.

During the year various youth clubs, such as the Junior Catholic Daughters and the 4-H, have sponsored square and folk dances.

The Circle and Square Dance Club organized by the recreation department has met periodically during the past winter. This group is made up of interested high school pupils.

A few outstanding events in recreation which will be remembered by the youth of Littleton for a long time are: the Santa Claus Parade which followed the landing of Santa Claus at Remich Park via helicopter; the Hallowe'en Jamboree held at Apthorp Common; the Gymkhana (athletic events) held at Remich Park during the winter carnival; and the interscholastic skating meet. The new Remich Park Recreation Area with its new ski-tow, toboggan chute, and skating rink will be remembered for meeting an urgent need for winter activities.

The recreation director would like to thank the graduating seniors for their help in accepting leadership roles and helping to make this new recreational program a success. Best of luck, success, and happiness to you all wherever you go.

Constitution of the Student Council —

Article 1 — Section 2

"We, the students of Littleton High School, in order to foster better relationships among ourselves and between the students and faculty, to promote student government and initiative among the pupils, and to promote the qualities of scholarship, leadership, and dignity of the students of Littleton High School, do establish this Constitution . . ."

The Student Council was organized under the direction of Mr. Kenney early in September and undertook several worthwhile projects among which were a clean-up campaign, the erection of a bulletin board in the upper corridor, the arranging of the trophy cabinet to include the sports in season, and the Littleton High School carnival float. Among the topics discussed were a school library, a one session school day, honor roll and other problems in the interest of the school.

The officers of the Student Council are as follows: Boyd Cole of the Class of 1952, president, Stanley Ross of the Class of 1953, vice president, and Yvonne Pinard of the Class of 1955, secretary-treasurer.
